THE TRANSFORMATION HAS BEGUN. IN A MILESTONE year for the Art Gallery of Ontario, we officially began construction on our Frank Gehry-designed expansion and launched the fundraising campaign that will make our ambitions a reality. We did all of this while continuing to offer a compelling series of exhibitions, educational programming and community outreach. As our journey to 2008 continues, Transformation AGO remains on time and on budget.

In June 2005, we embarked on this great journey well positioned for success – announcing that we had already secured $180 million of the $254 million we will require to complete the transformation project. Thanks to the generosity of 25 lead donors, the provincial and federal governments and other good friends, we launched both the campaign and the project with more than 70 per cent of our goal secured – surpassing every other major cultural campaign in Toronto.

Today, we have reached another key milestone in achieving our vision – surpassing the $211-million mark with seven new lead donors joining our original 25. We also recently witnessed the unequivocal commitment of the Province of Ontario with its additional contribution of a total of $50.5 million to the AGO and six other Toronto cultural organizations undertaking major construction and renovation projects. It was a gratifying confirmation of all that Transformation AGO stands for.

More than 475,000 people came to the AGO this year. Visitors and our 54,000 members remained steadfast supporters of the transformation even as the iconic Henry Moore sculpture Large Two Forms was moved and covered for the duration of construction, and even as pathways to art continued to change once construction began to move through the building.

Our Swing Space programming – conceived to embrace the changing architecture of the AGO by exhibiting art in unexpected places – kicked off with artist Fabian Marcaccio and a squad of paintballers who transformed George Weston Hall before hundreds of visitors on-site and hundreds more on the Web.

Catherine the Great: Arts for the Empire – Masterpieces from The State Hermitage Museum, Russia drew more than 150,000 visitors.

We welcomed Transformation AGO architect Frank Gehry to Toronto to open a remarkable exhibition of his works over the last decade.

We acquired more than 26,000 works of art this year – a substantial increase over last year due to the generous donation of two extraordinary collections of photography. Informations et Documents (1954–1978) features the work of exceptional French and American photographers whose photo essays of life in the United States were published in Paris to counteract the effects of the Cold War crisis in Europe. We also received the Klinsky Agency holdings, which chronicle German society in the 1930s through the eyes of the illustrated press.

With the unprecedented growth of our permanent collection, which now stands at more than 66,000 works, we have begun in-depth reinstallation planning to be ready for our grand reopening in 2008.

Even as we continued planning for 2008, wonderful things happened daily at the AGO throughout this year. Critical start-up funding launched ArtsAccess – our outreach program designed to engage community members in cultural activities through artist-led workshops across the city and province. We volunteered with the Red Cross to aid victims of Hurricane Katrina. We also took our gallery to community art festivals and fairs with the volunteer-driven AGO is A Go booth.

The Gallery also worked tirelessly to identify the key targets across all of our operational areas that will shape the transformed AGO. We aligned them with our Strategic Plan and prioritized them to help us allocate our resources, both human and financial. Each priority reflects the qualities that will distinguish the AGO in 2008.

During the year, to inform our planning, we undertook extensive research to better understand the perceptions of our various communities and their own ambitions for the transformed AGO. We talked with staff, volunteers, members, artists, students and neighbours. We listened and looked for the common themes.

Three key attributes emerged, and our planning embraces them as the distinctive strengths of the AGO in 2008: an excellent collection, compelling and innovative interpretation and an extraordinary visitor welcome. When our work is done in 2008, our visitors will say, "The art was remarkable, I learned something about art and I felt welcomed in every way."

This is what our great friend and benefactor Ken Thomson imagined for the AGO. We were privileged to work with him in realizing a shared dream of making the AGO one of the great cultural institutions in North America. It saddens us all that Ken will not be with us to realize and celebrate this great vision. But his legacy will live on with our transformation.

APRIL

- In partnership with the Ontario Association of Art Galleries and 29 public art galleries across the province, the AGO helps celebrate the 85th anniversary of the Group of Seven's first exhibition (held at the AGO) by lending 80 works to the provincial celebration.
- In response to Toronto Mayor David Miller's Community Cleanup day, City Councillor Olivia Chow and a dedicated group of AGO staff, volunteers and neighbours clean up Grange Park.
- Internationally celebrated artist Sol LeWitt launches the Wallworks series. Other artists to create works directly on gallery surfaces this year include C.A. Swintak, Lawrence Weiner, Denyse Thomasos, Raymond Pettibon and Chris Ballantyne.

2

MAY

- Members' Journal launches in its new, expanded format as Art Matters. The publication is delivered to over 27,000 households.
- The AGO, the Justina M. Barnicke Gallery, Hart House, the Textile Museum of Canada and the University of Toronto Art Centre launch Isaacs Seen, four interconnected exhibitions that illustrate the career of pioneer art dealer and avid collector Avrom Isaacs.
- More than 200 people in George Weston Hall watch Fabian Marcaccio and a squad of paintballers transform the walls. The event, accompanied by an original score by composer Claudio Baroni, is broadcast live on the Toronto Star website with commentary by art critic Peter Goddard.
- The AGO's blockbuster exhibition Turner, Whistler, Monet: Impressionist Visions completes its international run, attracting 1,092,572 visitors during its tours in Toronto, Paris and London. Conceived by Dr. Katharine Lochnan, R. Fraser Elliott curator of Prints and Drawings, this exhibition brings together for the first time 100 of the greatest works by J.M.W. Turner, James McNeill Whistler and Claude Monet.

JUNE

- An AGO first, visitors cast votes for their favourite works from the collection for Favourites: Your Choices from Our Collection. The most popular works include Laura Muntz Lyall's Interesting Story, followed by Tom Thomson's The West Wind and Augustus John's The Marchesa Casati.
- The Shape of Colour: Excursions in Colour Field Art, 1950–2005 presents a new perspective on the movement that dominated the art world. The exhibition puts forward Mark Rothko and Clyfford Still as essential precursors and includes colour-field artists Helen Frankenthaler, Morris Louis and Jack Bush.

3

- The AGO announces that $180 million has been raised from the public and private sectors on a goal of $254 million for Transformation AGO. Twenty-five of the gifts of one million dollars or more come from past and present volunteer leaders of the AGO.
- At the Annual General Meeting, Matthew Teitelbaum reports a balanced budget, record attendance of 665,425 in 2004/05 and the acquisition of 824 new works to the collection. The Gallery ends the fiscal year with a small surplus of $13,000 on a total operating revenue of $35 million, reflecting sound fiscal management.

ANNUAL CAMPAIGN 2005–2006
The AGO gratefully acknowledges the generosity of the many individuals, corporations and foundations whose contributions assist the Gallery in providing a wide range of quality programs and services to the public. Each year, the AGO raises vital financial support through membership fees, exhibition and program sponsorship, donations for art purchases, special projects and general contributions. The following list recognizes the support of our corporate, foundation and individual donors.

JULY

- The first installment of Transformation AGO hoarding is unveiled at the Canada Day Art in the Park celebration. The hoarding features a series of art projects by local community organizations.

4

- Lismer and Beyond: 75 Years of Arts Education at the AGO pays tribute to Arthur Lismer, the Group of Seven member who launched the AGO's educational programming with fabled Saturday sketching classes in Grange Park. Today, over 50,000 people a year attend the classes, lectures, performances and community events in what is now the Anne Tanenbaum Gallery School.
- Swing Space programming continues to exhibit exciting contemporary art in unexpected places during Transformation AGO, including Present Tense: Seth, the first solo museum exhibition of the critically acclaimed cartoonist, and Media/Art/Space: Jennifer Steinkamp, an installation of projected video and animation that explores issues of architectural space.
- The AGO welcomes youth from Bangkok and their Canadian hosts for a tour of the Henry Moore Sculpture Centre. The group visited Toronto on a one-month exchange prearranged by the Children's International Summer Villages, a worldwide organization promoting peace and understanding through children.

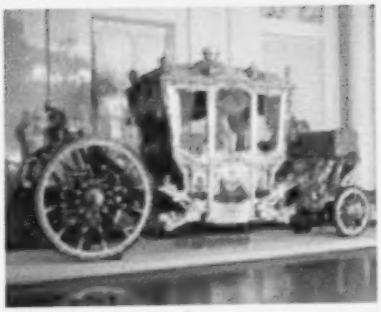
AUGUST

- Gerald McMaster, a leading authority on First Nations art in Canada, becomes the AGO's curator of Canadian art and the first Aboriginal curator to lead the Canadian division of an art museum. Bruce Ferguson, dean of Columbia University's School of Art and a renowned independent curator, joins the Gallery as director of exhibitions and publications.
- At the CNE, a dedicated team of volunteers staff the AGO is A Go booth for 18 consecutive days. More than 75,000 Art Matters buttons are distributed and volunteers answer countless questions about Transformation AGO.

SEPTEMBER

- The AGO receives over $1 million from the Ontario Trillium Foundation, Virtual Museum of Canada and the Salamander Foundation to launch ArtsAccess, a three-year interregional arts education and outreach program designed to engage community members in cultural activities through artist-led workshops across the city and province.
- Twenty AGO staff and volunteers join forces with the Canadian Red Cross to raise almost $10,000 for Hurricane Katrina relief.
- The AGO's Youth Council and members of the Norfolk Arts Centre formulate the Toronto-Norfolk Abridged Dictionary of Contemporary Cultural Translations to illustrate the similarities and differences in daily life for rural and urban youth. The dictionary is launched at Culture Shock: Voices of an Emerging Generation, a three-day interdisciplinary arts festival.

OCTOBER



5

- Catherine the Great: Arts for the Empire – Masterpieces from The State Hermitage Museum, Russia opens, featuring more than 200 works of art. Highlight of the exhibition is the Romanov Coach in which Catherine rode to her coronation in Moscow in 1762. The carriage, contained in 17 wooden crates, takes six days to arrive at the AGO from St. Petersburg, Russia, travelling by truck, ferry and plane.
- AGO podcasts take the sting out of sold-out exhibition lectures. The opening lecture about the Catherine the Great exhibition is downloaded more than 1,000 times in the first week.
- The third annual Shadow Ball, the AGO's signature fundraiser, is co-chaired by Lina Gagliano and Barbara Macdonald and raises $305,000 net for the AGO's exhibitions and educational programs.

NOVEMBER

- The opening night preview of the Toronto International Art Fair – launching a four-day visual art exchange, featuring exhibitions and discussions – nets $195,000 for the AGO's education and exhibition programming.
- New Founders, a group of younger donors in support of the Transformation AGO

6

- The work of four Toronto artists on view at the AGO – Kim Adams, Michael Awad, Luis Jacob and Denyse Thomasos – is exhibited as part of Swing Space, a program which explores the intersection of contemporary art and changing architecture.
- Expert AGO staff in exhibition services and conservation play a central role in moving Henry Moore's Large Two Forms 12 feet south to its new location at the transformed AGO. Purchased by the AGO in 1973, the landmark work has been an attraction at the corner of Dundas and McCaul streets for more than 30 years.

DECEMBER

- Due to popular demand, the AGO extends the duration of Catherine the Great: Arts for the Empire – Masterpieces from The State Hermitage Museum, Russia by two days. The show draws more than 156,000 visitors.

7

JANUARY

- For the first time in the Gallery's history, the AGO launches an exhibition to be created entirely by the public, inviting portrait submissions for In Your Face, an installation of portraits collected to celebrate the individuality and diversity of Canada.

FEBRUARY

- Frank Gehry visits the AGO to launch the exhibition Frank Gehry: Art + Architecture, which explores his unique and dynamic sculptural style and the impact of his hallmark designs on the surrounding communities.
- After the critically acclaimed tour of David Milne Watercolours: "Painting toward the Light" to the British Museum, London, and the Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York, the AGO-organized exhibition of watercolours by the Canadian artist comes home for viewing until May 21.

8

- The AGO's Youth Council is recognized by the Untitled Arts Awards for the Best Independent Solo or Group Exhibition or Project, for The Living Room Project, a public installation in Toronto that was inspired by a visit to Christo and Jeanne-Claude's Central Park installation, The Gates. AGO curators David Moos and Michelle Jacques also share an award for Best Curated Exhibition in a Public Gallery for The Shape of Colour: Excursions in Colour Field Art, 1950–2005 and Luis Jacob: Habitat.

MARCH

- The AGO's renowned Art Rental and Sales Gallery moves off-site to a temporary location at the corner of Dundas Street and University Avenue for the duration of the Transformation project.
- The provincial budget allocates $50.5 million to be shared by the AGO and six other expansion projects in Toronto. The AGO receives $15 million for its Transformation AGO project.
- Charles and Marilyn Baillie pledge $5 million to the Transformation AGO expansion project. In recognition of their gift, the AGO names the Gallery's Frank Gehry-designed hosting centre Baillie Court.

Notes

1. The above statement of operations provides a summary of the AGO's financial activity for 2005/2006. Financial statements for the 2005/2006 fiscal year (April 1, 2005 to March 31, 2006), audited by Ernst & Young are available upon request from the Art Gallery of Ontario. (Director's Office Tel: 416-979-6613)

2. In the 2005/2006 fiscal year, the AGO received gifts of works of art with an approximate value of $20,540,000. This is not reflected in the financial data above, but is identified in the AGO's 2005/2006 audited financial statements.

3. The AGO records capital asset purchases at cost and then amortizes its capital assets over the useful life of the asset. Donations and grants received for the purchase of capital assets are deferred and then amortized based on the useful life of the asset.

4. Included in government grant revenue is one-time financial assistance from the Province of Ontario of $4.5 million to assist operations during construction.
